Driveway and Footpath Gravel

If it's driveway gravel you're after, try choosing an angular product which is typically 14mm or 20mm in size and consisting of a granite, basalt or flint. These tend to lock together when driven on and don't crush down as easy under the weight of a vehicle.

Again for footpaths, try choosing an angular gravel which locks together when walked on. We find that 10mm gravels and above are the most popular for footpaths as these don't get stuck in shoe treads or wash away easily in heavy rain.

For both of these applications, we recommend laying the gravel at a minimum depth of 50mm (about 2 inches).

Decorative Garden Gravel

Gravel can also be used to spruce up borders or flower beds, and if you want to keep the weeds at bay, you can lay the gravel on an underlying membrane. The membrane is tough enough to suppress weeds, but is permeable to allow rainwater to soak through to the soil. We also supply mulch.

Slate & Paddlestones

We stock a full range of slate items to meet a wide array of varying requirements. From our large slate paddlestones to our incredibly popular slate chippings, we have the perfect product for you, whatever your need.

So, whether you want some slate paddlestones to bring colour to your pond or slate rockery to create an attractive water feature, you're sure to find something that will enhance your outdoor space.
